A good Ulster will open the door of comfort for every stormy day this

Shall it be of Frieze, either the genuine Hibernian or a solid, compact Irish-American, gray or black? Ratine or Elysian Beavers make very substantial Ulsters at moderate cost; so do Chinchillas—black, blue and Oxford.

But the typical Ulster fabric is Shetland Beaver-shaggy and warm, but not burdensome in weight-brown, blue, gray, (or Cambridge,) and blue-Oxford.

All our Ulsters are lined with worsted-as heavy and fine as goes into many suits; some have satin shoulderlining, all have silk or satin-sleeve lining; all are made as well as we know how to make them.
